The Elgar Companion to Post Keynesian Economics, Second Edition

NEW

Edited by J.E. King, La Trobe University, Australia

The Elgar Companion to Post Keynesian Economics is a comprehensive guide to economic analyses in the tradition of Keynes and the so-called Cambridge (UK) school of economics. The coverage of themes and different theoretical orientations within Post Keynesianism is remarkable and the quality of the various entries is impressive. John King's invisible hand is responsible for a minimum of overlaps and an optimum in quality and comprehensibility. This book has already proved to be of interest to a wide range of economists and can be expected to continue to do so for a long time to come.

– Heinz D. Kurz, University of Graz, Austria

This thoroughly revised and updated second edition provides a comprehensive guide to Post Keynesian methodology, theory and policy prescriptions.

The Elgar Companion to Recent Economic Methodology

Edited by John B. Davis, University of Amsterdam, The Netherlands and D. Wade Hands, University of Puget Sound, US

Bringing together a collection of leading contributors to this new methodological thinking, the authors explain how it differs from the past and point towards further concerns and future issues. The recent research programs explored include behavioral and experimental economics, neuroeconomics, new welfare theory, happiness and subjective well-being research, geographical economics, complexity and computational economics, agent-based modeling, evolutionary thinking, macroeconomics and Keynesianism after the crisis, and new thinking about the status of the economics profession and the role of the media in economics.

Roads to Social Capitalism

NEW

Theory, Evidence, and Policy

Peter Flaschel, Bielefeld University and Sigrid Luchtenberg, Duisburg-Essen University, Germany

The current crises in the financialization of capitalism, and their repercussions on the financial viability of entire countries, severely question the achievements of mainstream economics and its disregard of Keynes's theory of effective demand and finance. In view of this, Peter Flaschel and Sigrid Luchtenberg consider roads to a type of capitalism that could eventually be considered as 'social' in nature.

The Coase Theorem NEW

Edited by Richard A. Posner, United States Court of Appeals for the Seventh Circuit and University of Chicago Law School and Francesco Parisi, University of Minnesota, US and University of Bologna, Italy

This two-volume collection provides an overview of essential works for understanding one of the most important contributions to the field of law and economics: the Coase Theorem. A variety of prominent scholars contribute crucial essays, each exploring different aspects of Coase's work. Volume I explores the origins, restatements and extensions of Coase's Theorem and contains subsections on sources, positive restatements, normative corollaries, 'Coaseanism', and Coase's intellectual legacy. Volume II considers criticisms and applications of the Coase Theorem covering surveys and applications, Coasean Bargaining, Coase and the Constitution, political markets, liability, critiques, and experimental testing of the theorem.

The Elgar NEW PB Companion to the Chicago School of Economics

Edited by Ross B. Emmett, James Madison College, Michigan State University, US

Many know the Chicago School of Economics and its association with Milton Friedman, George Stigler, Ronald Coase and Gary Becker. But few know the School's history and the full scope of its scholarship. In this Companion, leading scholars examine its history and key figures, as well as provide surveys of the School's contributions to central aspects of economics, including: price theory, monetary theory, labor and economic history. The volume examines the School's traditions of applied welfare theory and law and economics while providing a glimpse into emerging research on Chicago's role in the development of neoliberalism.

Handbook of Economics and Knowledge NEW

Edited by Richard Arena, University of Nice-Sophia Antipolis, Agnès Festré, University of Amiens and GREDEG-University of Nice-Sophia Antipolis and Nathalie Lazaric, University of Nice-Sophia Antipolis, France

'While there is growing recognition that understanding knowledge is at the very heart of economics, little work has been coming forth thus far representing in a comprehensive and coherent way its fundamental nature and wide-ranging consequences for economic analysis. The editors, Richard Arena, Agnès Festré, and Nathalie Lazaric, are to be commended for having filled this critical gap by providing a well-organized collection of outstanding articles. This rich and greatly needed Handbook, comprises contributions about the role knowledge plays in the history of the discipline as well as the most significant current developments as we witness them, particularly in the branches of evolutionary, institutional and complexity economics.'

Chicago Price Theory NEW

Edited by J. Daniel Hammond, Wake Forest University, Steven G. Medema, University of Colorado, Denver and John D. Singleton, Duke University, US

The 'Chicago Price Theory' approach to economics has been credited with shedding light on many fundamental questions relating to traditional economics and renowned scholars including Milton Friedman, Frank Knight, George Stigler, Jacob Viner and others have each played a key role in the development of investigative techniques and methodologies. This comprehensive three-volume collection brings together the most important papers from leading economists published in the past 120 years covering a wide range of topics and issues. Along with an original introduction by the editors, this authoritative set will be of immense value to students, researchers, scholars and practitioners interested in 'Chicago Price Theory'.

The Elgar NEW Companion to Marxist Economics

Edited by Ben Fine and Alfredo Saad-Filho with Marco Boffo, University of London, UK

This Companion takes stock of the trajectory, achievements, shortcomings and prospects of Marxist political economy. It reflects the contributors' shared commitment to bringing the methods, theories and concepts of Marx himself to bear across a wide range of topics and perspectives, and it provides a testimony to the continuing purpose and vitality of Marxist political economy.

World Economic NEW Performance

Past, Present and Future

Edited by D.S. Prasada Rao, University of Queensland, Brisbane, Australia and Bart van Ark, Conference Board, US and University of Groningen, The Netherlands

'Not only is this excellent collection of papers a fitting tribute to Angus Maddison, it is also a great resource for thinking about future patterns of global economic growth – both in the BRICS and the OECD – based on key insights from historical experience.'

– Nicholas Crafts, University of Warwick, UK

'The distinguished editors, leading authorities in the field of comparative quantitative economic development, have gathered a stellar group of authors to address arguably the most challenging question of our time: understanding development dynamics over time and across countries. They are to be congratulated for this comprehensive, stimulating and insightful volume. It is a fitting tribute to the late Angus Maddison, an intellectual giant in the study of long-term economic development, to whom the book is dedicated.'

The Elgar NEW PB Companion to Hyman Minsky

Edited by Dimitri B. Papadimitriou, Bard College and L. Randall Wray, Bard College and University of Missouri-Kansas City, US

This Companion provides a timely and engaging treatment of Hyman Minsky's approach to economics, which is enjoying a renewed appreciation because of its prescient analysis of the slow but sure transformation of the capitalist economy in the post-war period. Many have called the global financial crisis that began in the United States in 2007 a 'Minsky crisis', and these original contributions demonstrate precisely why both academic economists as well as policymakers have turned to Minsky for guidance. The book brings together the foremost Minsky scholars to provide a comprehensive overview of his approach, with extensions to bring the analysis up to date.

The Age of Central Banks

The late Curzio Giannini

'Curzio had one of the most fertile and original minds ever to be deployed on questions relating, first, to the interactions between Central Banks, private sector financial intermediaries and the government, and second to the working of the international monetary system in general, and to the role of the IMF specifically within that. His approach has been to apply a "theory of history", which provides a beautifully written and illuminating book, much easier and nicer to read and more rounded than the limited mathematical models that have so monopolised academia in recent decades.'

– From the foreword by Charles A.E. Goodhart

Curzio Giannini's history of the evolution of central banks illustrates how the most relevant institutional developments have taken place at times of widespread confidence crises and in response to deflationary pressures.

Famous Figures and Diagrams in Economics NEW PB

Edited by the late Mark Blaug, formerly of the University of London and University of Buckingham, UK and Peter Lloyd, University of Melbourne, Australia

*'A picture is said to be worth a thousand words. A picture can easily be worth two or three equations, and it is certainly more memorable. ## The Concept of NEW Equilibrium in Different Economic Traditions

An Historical Investigation

Bert Tieben, SEO Economic Research,
The Netherlands

'Bert Tieben is very well read in the history of economic thought and provides an overview of one of the basic concepts of economics that is unrivalled both in its scope and in its thoughtful and detailed discussion of the various currents and schools. It goes right to the heart of economic theory and asks some pertinent questions about the limits and the future of economic theorizing. That is, I think, what sets it apart from many other studies in the history of economic thought: it is history with an eye to the future, and it does all this without making any demands on the mathematical skills of the reader. This book should therefore appeal to everybody who is interested in the methodology of economics and in exploring the boundaries of economic analysis.'

The Microfoundations NEW Delusion

Metaphor and Dogma in the History of Macroeconomics

J.E. King, La Trobe University, Australia

In this challenging book, John King makes a sustained and comprehensive attack on the dogma that macroeconomic theory must have 'rigorous microfoundations'. He draws on both the philosophy of science and the history of economic thought to demonstrate the dangers of foundational metaphors and the defects of micro-reduction as a methodological principle. Strong criticism of the microfoundations dogma is documented in great detail, from some mainstream and many heterodox economists and also from economic methodologists, social theorists and evolutionary biologists. The author argues for the relative autonomy of macroeconomics as a distinct 'special science', cooperating with but most definitely not reducible to microeconomics.

Handbook of Alternative Theories of Economic Growth NEW PB

Edited by Mark Setterfield, Trinity College, Hartford, US, Cambridge University, UK and Laurentian University, Canada

Comprising specially commissioned essays, the Handbook provides a comprehensive overview of alternative theories of economic growth. It surveys major sub-fields (including classical, Kaleckian, evolutionary, and Kaldorian growth theories) and highlights cutting-edge issues such as the relationship between finance and growth, the interplay of trend and cycle, and the role of aggregate demand in the long run.

Why is there Money? NEW

Walrasian General Equilibrium
Foundations of Monetary Theory

Ross M. Starr, University of California,
San Diego, US

'Introducing the Arrow-Debreu-Starr model of monetary general equilibrium, Professor Starr provides the best defense ever made for the relevance of the Walrasian model to the pure theory of money. While most monetary theorists ventured to the overlapping generations model and then to the search model, only to create recently a hybrid search-Walrasian model, Starr presents the culmination of a patient, career-long effort to integrate money into the basic Walrasian model, with realistic taxation critically helping the government's money to dominate.'

Rational Econometric Man NEW

Transforming Structural Econometrics

Edward J. Nell, New School University, US and Karim Errouaki, The Foundation for the Culture of Peace, Spain

'If you are interested in understanding the underlying philosophical reasons why structural econometrics seems dead, read this book. Not only do the authors provide a comprehensive, stimulating, and provocative account of the debate and literature, they also provide insightful suggestions for improving the bridge over the theory-data gap in economics. Their main suggestion that theorists and econometricians should do more fieldwork to improve not only economic theories but also econometric models is a refreshing breeze of intellectual honesty in a world where the relationship between the theorist and the econometrician has grown stale.'

Radboud University,
Nijmegen and
Irene van Staveren,
Radboud University,
Nijmegen and Institute of Social Studies, The Hague,
The Netherlands

'This volume pulls together a remarkable collection of contributors designed to challenge the positive-normative dichotomy in economic methodology. . . . The intent of this publication is to provide a reference manual for those seeking insights into the connections between economics and ethics. It succeeds in that goal and should become a starting point for anyone who believes that mainstream economics needs methodological reorientation. . . . Anyone interested in ethics and economic methodology would do well to have this reference book handy. Highly recommended.'

Islamic Capitalism and Finance

Origins, Evolution and the Future

Murat Çizakça, INCEIF, the Global University of Islamic
Finance, Kuala Lumpur,
Malaysia

This illuminating and thought-provoking book questions whether classical Islamic capitalism, which has served Muslims so well for centuries, can provide a viable alternative world economic system. In the current recession – the worst since 1929 – this is surely a provocative question. But if Islamic capitalism is to emerge as a viable alternative, its nature and systems must be well understood.

The Social Economics of Thorstein Veblen

David Reisman, Nanyang Technological University, Singapore and University of Surrey, UK

'Considering the inability of conventional economics to comprehend the socio-economic convulsions over the past few years in so many countries, it is surely time to try something else. David Reisman's The Social Economics of Thorstein Veblen thus appears at a most opportune moment. This original analytical study is the best introduction into Veblen's work that I know of, and will, I trust, encourage a renewal of interest in possibly the most unjustly neglected of economists. Reisman's primary contention that there is – despite obstacles to comprehension created by Veblen's personal idiosyncrasies and unconventional literary style – a Veblen structure of thought, or general system, is fully confirmed by the evidence presented in his book. In this demonstration lies its great merit.'

The Elgar Companion to Social Economics

Edited by John B. Davis,
University of Amsterdam,
The Netherlands and
Marquette University, US
and Wilfred Dolfsma,
University of Groningen,
The Netherlands

'Davis and Dolfsma have edited a volume of 36 essays that provides a first-rate introduction to the recent cutting-edge scholarship in social economics. . . . the volume provides an impressive and broad array of articles covering traditional social economic topics. . . . Each essay is an excellent point of entry into social economic thought. This volume will be of great interest to economists writing in the heterodox tradition and/or to mainstream economists seeking a richer analysis of socioeconomic relationships. Highly recommended.'

A Short History of Ethics and Economics

The Greeks

James E. Alvey, Massey University, New Zealand and International Christian University, Japan

'This is an important and timely work that addresses the moral crisis of contemporary economics. Alvey not only provides an excellent narrative of classical Greek economics, but his arguments are aimed at restoring the central role that ethics played in the long tradition of economic thought. This is an invaluable scholarly resource for academics and students of political economy as well as the history of political thought.'

Christian Theology and Market Economics

Edited by Ian R. Harper, Deloitte, Melbourne, Australia and Samuel Gregg, Acton Institute, US

'Theologians and economists are both enormously influential. Unfortunately, they tend to misunderstand, ignore, talk past, and distrust one another. Harper and Gregg aim to solve this problem by "demonstrating that meaningful conversation between the disciplines is both possible and rewarding." They are too humble. The ten essays in this collection show that this conversation is immensely rewarding. . . Highly recommended.'

Mathematics and Modern Economics NEW

Edited by Geoffrey M. Hodgson, University of Hertfordshire, UK

The appropriate role of mathematics in economics has been controversial for two hundred years, and has been a matter of ongoing debate as economics became more mathematical after the Second World War. Controversy has been heightened after extensive criticisms of models used for analysis, prediction and risk assessment prior to the great financial crash of 2008. In this topical collection, Professor Hodgson brings together the seminal classic and recent essays published since 1945 on the role of mathematics in economics, by leading authors including six Nobel Laureates, and from a variety of perspectives.

The Seminal Works of the Great Depression

Edited by Randall E. Parker, East Carolina University, US

The causes and consequences of the Great Depression have been the subject of a vast profusion of literature within the field of macroeconomics. In this timely three-volume collection, Randall Parker brings together the most authoritative works written by some of the leading experts in this field. The first volume gives a comprehensive overview of the build-up and immediate aftermath of the Depression while the second volume provides the reader with detailed analyses of the reasons behind this economic catastrophe. The third volume charts the vital research undertaken on the operation of the interwar gold standard, which has deepened our understanding of the Depression and its international character and concludes with an investigation into the Real Business Cycle approach to the Depression.

62 articles, dating from 1930 to 2009

International Handbook on Teaching and Learning Economics

NEW

Edited by
Gail M. Hoyt, University of Kentucky and
KimMarie McGoldrick, University of Richmond, US

'In delightfully readable short chapters by leaders in the sub-fields who are also committed teachers, this encyclopedia of how and what in teaching economics covers everything. There is nothing else like it, and it should be required reading for anyone starting a teaching career – and for anyone who has been teaching for fewer than 50 years!'

– Daniel S. Hamermesh,
University of Texas, Austin, US

The International Handbook on Teaching and Learning Economics provides a comprehensive resource for instructors and researchers in economics, both new and experienced. This wide-ranging collection is designed to enhance student learning by helping economic educators learn more about course content, pedagogic techniques, and the scholarship of the teaching enterprise.

The Heart of Teaching Economics

NEW PB

Lessons from Leading Minds

Simon W. Bowmaker,
New York University, US

'The Heart of Teaching Economics is a marvellously entertaining and lively book.'

All who read it cannot help but come away from the experience with a richly enhanced understanding of the power, virtue and importance of teaching.'

– Wayne Geerling, The Business Economist

'Everyone remembers their favourite teacher. The testimonies recorded here provide a great insight into the minds of some of the most popular and successful to have graced a lecture hall. The range of styles is wide, but the theme of inspiration is common to all. This book will be of tremendous interest to any aspiring teacher. It will also appeal to anyone who wonders why their inspiration to understand economics still burns brightly so many years after their last lecture.'

Educating Economists

The Teagle Discussion on Re-evaluating the Undergraduate Economics Major

Edited by David Colander, Middlebury College and
KimMarie McGoldrick, University of Richmond, US

'This volume is an excellent outcome of an American Economic Association Committee for Economic Education project aimed at advancing the teaching of economics within a liberal arts context. Dave Colander and KimMarie McGoldrick assembled a most able panel of contributors for this effort that includes dialogue on what should be taught, how it should be taught, and how that teaching and learning should be assessed and rewarded. To the editors' credit, they have not attempted to dictate policy but to stimulate debate on the topics. This volume is a must read for anyone seriously interested in the teaching of economics at the tertiary level.'

Cycles, Crises NEW and Innovation

Path to Sustainable Development – a Kaleckian-Schumpeterian Synthesis

Jerry Courvisanos, University of Ballarat, Victoria, Australia

Cycles, crises and innovation are the major economic forces that shape capitalist economies. Central to this book is a critical realist political economy approach based on the works of Joseph Schumpeter and Michal Kalecki who identified cycles, crises and innovation as the three dynamic forces plotting the path of economic development. The book examines how the rise of capital, through investment, enshrines innovation in profit and power which determines the course of cycles and crises. Based on this analysis, strategic intervention by transformative eco-innovation is proposed as a public policy path to ecologically sustainable development.

Deep Complexity and the Social Sciences

Experience, Modelling and Operationality

Robert Delorme, Université de Versailles, France

'Today, in the academic world, we are pushed to present our ideas in short, high quality journal articles. It is therefore becoming increasingly difficult to devote time to a project spanning decades to produce a book of fundamental importance. Robert Delorme has been able to do this and the outcome is a marvellous and rare work of scholarship. This book will become the key reference in the field of complex economic systems. It is a thorough and systematic treatment of complexity. The existing literature in the field is well covered and each key contribution is assessed clearly from the standpoint of the "deep complexity" approach developed by Robert Delorme. The volume is long, but it is the product of many years of work and there is little doubt that it will remain the key reference for a number of years hence. This is a path-breaking book.'

The Economics NEW of Edwin Chadwick

Incentives Matter

Robert B. Ekelund, Jr., formerly of Auburn University and Edward O. Price III, Oklahoma State University, US

Sir Edwin Chadwick (1800–1890) is hardly a household name among economists, although he is a well-known hero to sanitation engineers and utilitarian social reformers. His brilliant and cunning ideas relating to contemporary economic policy are illuminated for the first time in this pioneering study.

Microfoundations NEW Reconsidered

The Relationship of Micro and Macroeconomics in Historical Perspective

Edited by Pedro Garcia Duarte and Gilberto Tadeu Lima, FEA-USP, Brazil

This volume critiques the standard narrative of mainstream economics and presents evidence rendering that narrative unreliable. It examines the history of the relationship of microeconomics and macroeconomics, beginning with their emergence as distinct fields within economics in the early 1930s. The authors go beyond the conventional history and challenge the association of microfoundations with Robert Lucas and rational expectations.

The Asian Mediterranean

Port Cities and Trading Networks in China, Japan and Southeast Asia, 13th-21st Century

François Gipouloux,
Centre National de la Recherche Scientifique (CNRS), France

'François Gipouloux has written a vast and comprehensive history of the Asian economic system. In the tradition of Braudel, he paints a picture that is detailed, full of insight, and essentially very long term. On the basis of an analysis of the old Mediterranean and Hanseatic economic networks, he surveys the pre-modern Asian system, bringing it up to date with studies of Yokohama, Hong Kong, Singapore and other Asian hubs. The culmination of many years' work, Gipouloux throws light on a new China – a China no longer land based and inward looking but dependent on, and a power in, a maritime world.'

Wilhelm Röpke's Political Economy

Samuel Gregg, Acton Institute, US

'We are extremely grateful then to the brilliant researcher and scholar, Samuel Gregg of the Acton Institute, for a concise, penetrating, and thorough analysis of Röpke's contribution to intellectual life. It breaks new ground, is highly readable, and adds considerably to the economic literature. It should become mandatory reading for every student of political economy. . . The purpose of Gregg's masterful book is to provide a descriptive and critical introduction to Röpke's understanding of political economy. . . This brilliant, analytical intellectual history will hopefully bring back interest in both Röpke and his "Humane Economy". We would all be the beneficiaries.'

Aristotle, Adam Smith and Karl Marx

On Some Fundamental Issues in 21st Century Political Economy

Spencer J. Pack,
Connecticut College, US

'Spencer Pack has written a most illuminating and insightful book. Beginning from Aristotelian foundations, Pack focuses our attention on an essential economic and moral issue: the difference between value in use and value in exchange. From this vantage point, he evaluates the arguments of Smith and Marx, demonstrating how their theories, both drawing on Aristotle, unfold into a general analysis of capitalism. His account forces us to think deeply about the nature of capitalist society. I recommend it highly.'

– John F. Henry, University of Missouri-Kansas City, US

Francis Ysidro Edgeworth

A Portrait with Family and Friends

Lluís Barbé, Universitat Autònoma de Barcelona, Spain

Lluís Barbé has recreated the background and life of Francis Ysidro Edgeworth through a fascinating exercise of reconstruction that succeeds in shaping the first detailed biography ever published of this major economist and statistician. Originating from previously unexplored letters and documents kept in archives and registers of Ireland, England and Catalonia, Edgeworth's relationships with his academic fellows – including Sully, Jevons, Marshall, Galton, Pearson, Walras, Pantaleoni, I. Fisher, Pareto, Keynes – are thoroughly depicted. Stemming from undiscovered primary sources, this book also reveals a close insight into the academic world of the period 1875–1925 in the fields of economics and statistics.

Capitalism as a Moral System

Adam Smith's Critique of the Free Market Economy

Spencer J. Pack,
Connecticut College, US

'The most noted figure in the history of economic thought is, of course, Adam Smith. Captured in recent times by free-market ideologues who have never read his work, he is also the most misunderstood. This is a fine treatment of this wise, wonderful, literate and intensely pragmatic scholar.'

– John Kenneth Galbraith, Harvard University, US

Roads to Wisdom, Conversations with Ten Nobel Laureates in Economics

Karen Ilse Horn, formerly of the Institut der deutschen Wirtschaft Köln, Germany

'This is a beautifully written and engaging book. At its heart is a series of structured interviews with ten Nobel Memorial Laureates in Economics that provide fascinating insights into the main influences on their career paths and pioneering work. Karen Horn is to be applauded, not just for her wide-ranging scholarship and thought-provoking analysis but also for producing a non-technical yet rigorous book which is eminently accessible to non-specialists. In short this an excellent volume which comes highly recommended.'

The Founders Betrayed

Timothy P. Roth, University of Texas, El Paso, US

'A sobering and emphatic reminder of how far we have strayed from the principles on which the republic was established. Diagnostic understanding is a necessary first step. But are we capable, as a body politic, to stop the binge and endure the hangover? Or must we acquiesce in the anarchy of politics beyond constitutional limits?'

Pioneering Papers of the Nobel Memorial Laureates in Economics series

Series editors: Howard R. Vane and Chris Mulhearn, Liverpool John Moores University, UK

'What a brilliant idea! To provide readers with both information on the Nobel Laureates in Economics and, to the degree possible, the original papers for which they were honored. The names of the "contributing" Laureates speak for themselves. Howard Vane and Chris Mulhearn, the editors, and Edward Elgar, the publisher, are to be congratulated for putting the idea into effect.'

– The late Warren J. Samuels,
Michigan State University, US

'These volumes complement Vane and Mulhearn's critically acclaimed book, The Nobel Memorial Laureates in Economics, and are an indispensable guide to key developments in modern economics.'

– The late Mark Blaug, formerly of the University of London and University of Buckingham, UK

This groundbreaking series brings together a critical selection of key papers by the Nobel Memorial Laureates in Economics that have helped shape the development and present state of economics. The editors have organized this comprehensive series by theme and each volume focuses on those Laureates working in the same broad area of study. The careful selection of papers within each volume is set in context by an insightful introduction to the Laureates' careers and main published works.

This landmark series is an essential reference source for scholars throughout the world.

Macroeconomic Methodology NEW PB

A Post-Keynesian Perspective

Jesper Jespersen,
Roskilde University,
Denmark

'Methodological practice is at the heart of divisions between schools of macroeconomic thought. Jesper Jespersen's book explains why and precisely how, and gives the reader the insight to choose between rival approaches. His own inspiration comes from Critical Realism and Popper's Three World analysis, with Keynes as the main exponent of a realist approach. The starting point of realist theory is a view of how the world is, rather than axioms, and the test is whether the theory can make, as Jespersen puts it, the "round trip back to reality", to give practical guidance to policy. This is only the focal point of a rich and attractive canvas. How I wish this book had been available when I taught methodology! And how I wish economists from all schools of thought would read it!'

Socialism, Economic Calculation and Entrepreneurship*Jesús Huerta de Soto, Universidad Rey Juan
Carlos, Spain

'A leading scholar in the tradition of the Austrian School of Economics, Professor Jesús Huerta de Soto presents a powerful analysis of socialism in a book dedicated to Ludwig von Mises, who underlined the theoretical failures of socialism and opened the famous economic calculation debate of the 1920s and 1930s. Then, as now, economic crises were widely attributed to freedom, business and markets. Then, as now, it was necessary to indicate the interventionist origins of trade cycles, the negative effects of economic policies, the crucial positive force of entrepreneurship, and the intellectual errors and terrible practical consequences of the enemies of liberty. Huerta de Soto's is, accordingly, a very timely book.'

Bargaining and the Theory of Cooperative Games: John Nash and BeyondEdited by William Thomson, University of Rochester, US

Building on the pioneering work by the Nobel Memorial Laureate, John Nash, Professor Thomson has brought together a broad selection of seminal articles which analyze and discuss bargaining and the theory of cooperative games. Beginning with a distinguished collection of papers discussing the origins of game theory, this volume systematically explores its development as a tool to illuminate economic behavior. It includes the work of highly accomplished academics whose discoveries over the years have shaped the direction of this subject. With his insightful introduction, the editor has ensured that this indispensable book is suitable for anyone with an interest in cooperative gaming.

51 articles, dating from 1950 to 2004
